forties, them White girls used to with a Black guy then. But they'd get caught. First thing they holler is 'Rape!' It wouldn't be rape.
... rape to keep them from messing themselves.564. Eaves: And you'd have to leave town. 565. Byrd: The guys would have to leave?570. Eaves: I know I was awful small. And they hung two guys over here in Madisonville on account of a White woman.586. Byrd: Do you remember anything about that, what happened in Madisonville, Mr. Eaves?587. Eaves: All I know is they hung them about a White woman. She said they raped her. See? And the boy had been going with her the whole time, see. Yeah. And that was, I guess that was 60 or 65 years ago, see.
Because I used to hear people talk about it and the guy that ... one of them had a wife. I remember her. And she was a good looking woman. And the judge said any time a man got a wife like that and run after a woman, the one said he raped her, said he should be hung. She was a good looking woman. And during '47, I believe '47, or '48 one, I went to her house. She lived in Louisville here.
But she kind of got older, you see. But she was a ... These three that they hung, they was kin to those Dulins up in Muellenberg. I remember one of the guys called Pete Dulin, he was kin to them. And he had a sister. And up there in Graham, there used to be a lot of Black people up there because they had a mining camp up there, you see. And I don't know how they got tied up with these women. But anyway, these women said they raped them. This woman said these guys raped her, you see. And they'd been going with ... And everybody knowed they was going with her, see. But they just wanted to stop it.588. Byrd: Do any Blacks live in Graham now? There's a few, ain't it? They've all moved out?589. Eaves: No. Now Bibs, she teaches in Graham and her two daughters teaches in Graham, see. But ain't no Black up there.590. Gilmore: They all moved to Cedarville probably. 591. Eaves: And Greenville.595. Eaves:
...But see, you take Greenville, those guys up there did a whole lot of domestic work. And a lot of those guys was going with those White women, you see. And they'd get into it with their husbands. Then they'd get out and get them another woman. Well, these Black boys are out cutting their yard and doing house work. And some of them looked pretty nice. And they just turned to them, you see. And one guy in particular, he was going with this woman. And they lived upstairs over this restaurant. And this Black boy was up there with her.
And them people hear their whining, see? Must have been putting that rod to her or something. She's whining and taking on. Well, they hear her downstairs, you see. And one of them said, 'That boy's doing something to that woman.' Well, it got out. He left Greenville; went to Louisville. And the next evening, he was back in Greenville. And her husband told them guys, say, 'You's a damn liar. My wife wouldn't fool with no Black man.' Said, 'I don't want to hear no more about it.' And the boy live in White Plains today, his son. And you can tell he's a bi-racial. And I had a cousin that lived in California. He was growing up in Greenville at that time. And he knowed her and knowed the boy. And every time he'd come in, he'd go by and holler at him and her. But see, nature's going to take its course, see. If the woman don't get it one way, she going to get the other one. But, you know what, I tell you something else too. You'd be surprised the people live in these fine mansions that don't even sleep together.596. Gilmore: That's right, yeah.597. Eaves: Just got a big front only. Well, there's about ... 5.15./5.17./14.
